

Entry-Level Dynamics 365 Finance Consultant

Catapult is looking for an Entry-Level Finance Consultant to work on supporting customers using Microsoft Dynamics 365 Business Central, joining our vibrant team in our downtown Vancouver office. This is an ideal role for a recent graduate or someone with a few years of full-time professional experience looking to take their career to the next level. The position will cover all phases of an ERP solution lifecycle from initial planning and design through implementation and user adoption.

Our vision is to become the leading provider of cloud solutions and digital transformation services to mid-sized businesses. Today our business focus is implementation, training and support for ERP and CRM solutions from Microsoft, based on the Dynamics 365 cloud platform. Our service offering extends from advisory and planning through implementation, upgrade, and customization to business process improvement, responsive support and managed services.

If you're at the start of your career and are looking to extend your skills and progress within a company, then look no further than Catapult.

About You:

You are passionate about software and technology and the potential it has to transform business. You are excited to work with growing businesses to bring governance, control, automation and efficiency to their financial accounting operations. You can work effectively with multi-disciplinary team members: customer stakeholders and end users, project managers, business analysts, and developers. You enjoy solving problems and are generally comfortable with technology such as database concepts, Excel, etc. You're a team player with a positive, results-orientated attitude. You're self-motivated, highly organized and have the ability to prioritize tasks.

What You'll Do:

- Use your experience and passion for technology to propose, configure, test, deploy, demonstrate and train clients on cloud ERP solutions and related platforms.
- Become an expert in cloud ERP functionality, capabilities and configuration, participate in solution design, system configuration, testing, implementation and support, and ensure that client requirements are successfully implemented
- Support clients in adopting new software capabilities by providing training to end users and assisting with post-deployment activities.
